

Case-Study Exercise: Loyalty

Motivator: As Soldiers in the United States Army, we recognize that there are threads that bind our actions together and define our commitment to each other, our units, our Country and our Constitution. It also describes our commitment to our family members and to ourselves. Loyalty builds mutual trust and allows us to succeed as a team.

Facilitator opening question:	Q- As a Soldier, how should you bear true faith and allegiance? Poss Ans- Faithfully adhere to others, our units and our Army <ul style="list-style-type: none">- Believe in and devote yourself to others- Support leaders and the chain of command- Care for your subordinates- Work with the team- Prioritize your obligations- Work within the system
--------------------------------------	---

As Soldiers, we live with balanced Loyalties. We are loyal first to our Constitution and our government, then to our Army and our units, and always to our family and to each other. We recognize that we live a Loyalty that is greater than ourselves.

Facilitator Questions-	Q- What does Loyalty mean to you personally? Q- How do Soldiers demonstrate loyalty to one another?
-------------------------------	--

Facilitator now transition to selected Case-study vignettes.

