■ History of CAPE

To reinforce the Army Profession and the Army Ethic, the Chief of Staff of the Army (CSA) established the Army Center of Excellence for the Professional Military Ethic (ACPME) at West Point, NY in May 2008. ACPME was later redesignated as the Center for the Army Profession and Ethic (CAPE) under TRADOC and CAC in August 2010. This action also expanded CAPE’s proponent mission to include the Army Profession, the Army Ethic, and character development.

The Army Profession is a unique vocation of experts certified in the design, generation, support, and ethical application of landpower, serving under civilian authority and entrusted to defend the Constitution and the rights and interests of the American people.

An Army Professional is a member of the Army Profession who meets the Army’s certification criteria of competence, character, and commitment.

Scope

This “A Decision to Not Act” Facilitator Guide employs the Experiential Learning Model (ELM). It enables students to work in collaborative groups with a facilitator/instructor who engages the learners in discussion. The learning is progressive and builds on a three-tier foundation. Students investigate the topics that are then enhanced in the collaborative work group and their facilitated discussion. Facilitators/instructors/leaders guide the students as necessary to achieve the Learning Objectives.

Background

The goal of this instructional video with facilitator guide is to promote personal and professional development among Army Professionals. Unlike training to task, adult developmental theories indicate that character development must be part of a learning continuum throughout an Army Professional’s career and beyond. Explorations of important topics through critical thinking and analysis allow not only cognitive but also affective development. Although self-education and directed education can lead to comprehension of this material, the desired learning in the higher categories of the cognitive and affective domains (where development is promoted) is best performed through peer-to-peer, facilitated group, and student-to-advisor interactions and collaborations. The ELM promotes this type of development (see Army Learning Model 2015).

Applicability

The facilitator guide can be used by facilitators/instructors/leaders as part of a course of study in Army institutional training and education, or as part of professional development programs in units and organizations.

It is recommended that facilitators/instructors/leaders use this guide as it best fits into their course of study or professional development programs, following the learning outcomes. They are also encouraged to examine the needs of their students and integrate other related topics to meet those needs.

Character and identity are foundational for a person’s behavior, ethical reasoning, and decision-making, and critical for the ethical discretionary judgments and actions of Army Professionals. Clearly, leaders at all levels need to reemphasize development in this critical domain.

■ Conduct

Concrete Experience

Facilitator Note: Precede Part 1 of “A Decision to Not Act” video with an icebreaker or introductory question or statement. An example may be “How do Army Professionals make decisions?” Then show Part 1 of “A Decision to Not Act.”

Facilitator Tool: The full transcript of the “A Decision to Not Act” is in Appendix A.

Publish and Process

Facilitator Note: Have the participants react to the Concrete Experience. Start by ensuring that they understand the scenario by having them summarize it (if required, a full transcript is in Appendix A). Provide appropriate questions to facilitate the discussion. The facilitator can use the following example questions or create ones to meet the lesson objectives.

Publish

The Publish sub-step relies on observation by asking the learners to state what happened in the Concrete Experience—just the facts. Publishing may include determining the sequence of events as well as the individuals involved in the Concrete Experience.

Summary: As an instructor for an academy, 1SG Godkin said he had a female subordinate who was flirtatious but never crossed the line verbally or physically in an inappropriate way. An “old-fashioned kind of guy” with his own set of morals and values, he struggled with the situation and whether he should act and file a report or not take action at all.

1. What are the facts (what happened)?
2. Who were the major contributing individuals or main individual involved in the video?
3. What factors affected 1SG Godkin’s thinking or actions?

4. What were the implications for 1SG Godkin (what did it mean/ what was learned)? Explain.
5. What is your reaction to what happened?

Process

After the facts of the Concrete Experience have been established, students are then asked to Process the Concrete Experience by discussing what happened and the implications of the Concrete Experience. Note any gaps in student knowledge or lesson content that would prevent the students from reaching the Learning Objective or inhibit them from processing the Concrete Experience. Address any identified gaps during the Generate New Information step.

“A Decision to Not Act” Part 1 (0:00 to 1:03) Discussion:

As 1SG Godkin struggles with the situation, how is his ethical decision-making contributing to or detracting from the Army Profession’s essential characteristics? Specifically:

1. What would be the effects of his decision on “building Trust within the Army and with the American people”?
2. How did his expert knowledge (Military Expertise) play into his evaluation of the situation?
3. What may be the effects of his decision on organizational morale and Esprit de Corps?
4. How is he acting as a Steward of the Army Profession?
5. What specific behaviors/statements in the scenario show 1SG Godkin’s professional identity and character, and their contributions to or detractions from Honorable Service?

Additional questions:

1. As a male instructor, 1SG Godkin said he had a female student that was demonstrating inappropriate body language and was making flirtatious innuendos. What are examples of inappropriate body language and flirtatious innuendos?
2. At times, subordinates are overly nice to their superiors. Is there a difference between being overly nice and flirting? Can a female who is being overly nice be misinterpreted as flirting? If 1SG Godkin felt the female student was flirting, should he have allowed the behavior to continue? Why or why not? Because the behavior was unacceptable to 1SG Godkin, what actions could he have taken to halt it?

3. The other instructor at the academy confirmed that he had not witnessed inappropriate innuendos or body language from the female Soldier. Should 1SG Godkin have disregarded his uneasiness simply because his partner instructor was not having the same experiences? Why or why not?
4. 1SG Godkin said, “There was a statement that was made that led me to believe that I had a decision to make.” Why would he feel he had to make a decision? What possible courses of action could he take? Explain.
5. What rules/regulations apply to this situation? What Army Values do you see in this scenario?

Generate New Information

Check on Knowledge

Facilitator Note: Assess any gaps in knowledge/content that would prevent reaching the Learning Objective, or inhibit the students from processing the Concrete Experience. Use the following questions to generate student responses that can then be compared to the resources. Other suggested questions can be found in Appendix B.

Questions

1. How did the actions of the individual and/or organization detract from or contribute to the five essential characteristics of the Army Profession?

(Resource: ADRP 1: Characteristics of the Army Profession, paragraphs: 1-23 through 1-29)

2. How did the actions of the individual demonstrate or show lack of competence, character, and commitment of an Army Professional?

(Resource: ADRP 1: Certification Criteria, paragraphs: 3-16 through 3-18)

3. What moral and legal obligations and aspirations from the Army Ethic can be seen in the story?

(Resource: ADRP 1: Our Obligations and Aspirations from the Army Ethic, paragraphs: 2-11 through 2-14)

4. Were discretionary judgment and ethical reasoning (ethical decision-making) exercised in the video? Give specific examples.

(Resources: ADRP 1: Discretionary Judgment, paragraphs: 1-9; 3-10 through 3-11; ADRP 6-22: Ethical Reasoning, paragraphs: 3-37 through 3-40)

5. What moral characteristics were demonstrated or ignored in the video?

(Resource: ADRP 6-22: Leader Character, paragraphs: 3-1 through 3-25)

6. What moral implications occurred as a result of the actions taken in the video?

(Resource: ADRP 1: Trust, paragraphs: 2-6 through 2-10)

Present New Information

Facilitator Note: Provide new information from the reference doctrine under “Resources” and/or other additional sources needed to fill any gaps in knowledge/content that would prevent reaching the Learning Objective, or inhibits the students from processing the Concrete Experience. Facilitate a discussion of the material to improve depth and retention.

Develop

This step is characterized by a simple question to the students about how they will use the new information from the Generate New Information step. A best practice during the Develop step is to ask questions that “personalize” student responses—do not ask what others would do or even what the students think others should do, but what the students themselves would do if they were in the situation.

Facilitator Note: The most effective approach for the Develop step is a specific open-ended question asked in the second person: “How will you use this information in the future?” or “What value does this have for you?” It is important to ensure that students are allowed appropriate time to answer this question so they can see the value of what they have learned and the relevance of the material covered. The facilitator may have to provide some examples of how the material is relevant and get some level of acknowledgement from the students.

Additional questions about the Concrete Experience for the students to ensure relevance:

1. Have you had an experience where an individual was flirtatious? Did it make you uncomfortable? If so, what did you do?
2. Under any circumstances, is it acceptable for Army Professionals to be flirtatious toward a superior or another Soldier? Why or why not?
3. What would you as an Army Professional and Senior Non-commissioned Officer do? What are the second and third order effects of taking action in this situation? What are the second and third order effects of not taking action in this situation?

Facilitator Note: To increase the relevance of the material for the students, show Part 2 of “A Decision to Not Act” video. Then facilitate a discussion using the new information combined with supplemental questions that guide the group through a rich discussion on how the new information relates to professionals, how it shapes a professional’s behavior, and ethical decision-making.

“A Decision to Not Act” Part 2 (0:00 to 1:38) Discussion:

1. “I have my own individual morals, my own individual values,” said 1SG Godkin. Why is it important for Army Professionals to uphold morals and values at all times?
2. If he had not been married at the time, do you think he would have reacted the same? Why or why not?
3. 1SG Godkin said, “Using the Army Values assisted in making the decision.” Do you feel by using his Army Values the decision was easier to make? If yes, why? If no, why?

4. He didn't report it because he didn't feel sexually assaulted or harassed. If you feel sexually assaulted or harassed, do you know how to file a report? Do you know the difference between restricted and unrestricted reporting?
5. If the female Soldier made an inappropriate comment, why did he not file a report? If he did not wish to file a report, what other courses of action could he have taken? Explain. Do you think 1SG Godkin made the right decision to not file a report? Why or why not?
6. What do you think the effects of the outcome of this situation were on the female student when she returns to her command? What do you think the effects of the outcome of this situation were on 1SG Godkin?
7. What did you (the students) take away from this video?
8. How do you (the students) feel about the information presented in this video?
9. What will you (the students) do with this new information when you return to your organization?

Apply

The fifth and final step in the ELM is the Apply step where the material is actually put to the test—either through a practical exercise, some type of an assessment (such as a written product), or through real-life application of the Learning Objective. The Apply step should provide an assessment as to whether the Learning Objective was met. In the Apply step, feedback to the student is essential.

Facilitator Note: Choose an appropriate question, story, video, written vignette, exercise, picture/poster, etc., that will allow the students to apply their new knowledge and will generate discussion within small/large group settings. Choose an appropriate assessment to ascertain if the objective has been met.

Assessment Suggestion: You may choose to replay Part 1 and evaluate students by comparing their analysis and understanding of concepts and principles during the “Publish and Process” step to their analysis and understanding after the “Generate New Information” and “Develop” steps. (See additional questions in Appendix B.)

■ Summary

During this lesson, you used the ELM to examine a factual account of an event and assess the event using the Army Profession doctrine. The individual Soldier used his discretionary judgment and ethical reasoning to make a decision. From this learning session, you are able to derive meaning that you can apply in your career.

■ Appendix A: Video Transcription

Part I

1SG Godkin: I was a instructor for an academy approximately 10 years ago. Had one of my students... a female student, throughout the duration of the course... flirtatious innuendos, body language, nothing verbal, nothing physical, just stuff that was going on. (00:35)

On Screen Text:
 body language ...”

1SG Godkin: The class was, it was myself and I had a partner instructor. I approached him and asked him if he was getting the same thing. And he said “no.” So that led me to believe that it was just occurring to myself. (0:50)

On Screen Text:
 “...that led me to believe that it was just occurring to myself.”

1SG Godkin: At the end of the 30 day... at the time, nothing was ever physical or verbal, it was just body language and stuff like that. At the end of the 30-day class, there was a statement that was made that led me to believe that I had a decision to make whether to act on her or not. (01:03)

On Screen Text:
 “I had a decision to make.”

Part 2

1SG Godkin: Some people might ask why I didn’t report it or why I didn’t go down one road or the other road. I am an old-fashioned kind of a guy. I was raised in the South. I have my own individual morals, my own individual values that I was raised on. At the time, I was married, and along at the time being in the Army for 10 years... using the Army values assisted in making the decision that I made which was not to act on anything that was given my way. (00:41)

On Screen Text:
 “Using the Army values
 assisted in making the decision ... not to act.”

1SG Godkin: I didn’t report it... one, I didn’t really feel the need to. I didn’t feel assaulted. I didn’t feel harassed. And me being an—at the time—an older guy and the student being young. I was... I guess you can say somewhat flattered. But I don’t think there was really a need to report it, just due to the fact that I myself, didn’t feel violated in any way, I guess I would say. (01:18)

On Screen Text:
 “I don’t think there was really a need to report it...”

1SG Godkin: Upon graduation, nothing ever happened. This individual that I’m discussing left and went back to her home station. I remained an instructor at the location that I was at and continued my career. (01:38)

■ Appendix C: Experiential Learning Model (ELM) Overview

Experiential learning happens when a person engages in an activity, singularly or in a group, looks back, and critically analyzes what happened during the activity. Experiential learning allows predictability about what may happen given the same or similar event. Learners draw useful insight from their analysis, and then put the result to work.

The ELM has impact, because it adds the interest and involvement of the members during an activity, and it contributes significantly to the transfer of learning. Once members see the relationship between these issues and their demonstration in the experience, the relevance of the model becomes clear.

While group interaction is important, nothing is more relevant to us than we are. Experiential learning is based on this concept. In other words, experiential learning provides a forum for self-knowledge. Regardless of the content under consideration, group members must see, hear about, and examine their own uniqueness in action. The experiential model, then, allows cognitive and affective behavioral involvement. Experiential learning combines personal experience, cognitive and affective involvement and feedback, and theoretical and conceptual material for a more complete learning event.

Concrete Experience

- Serves as a trigger of past knowledge and experience, a focusing mechanism for the module that follows, and a support for teaching new content. Connects the topic with student understanding of it and appeals to the affective domain for both motivation and internalization of the content.
- The facilitator provides written or video vignettes or other material as a prior-to-class experience or as the first experience in the class.

Publish and Process

- Starts with solicitation then reaction to the Concrete Experience to reflect knowledge and experience of the topic. Begins the reconciliation of where the learning starts with the learning outcome.
- The facilitator gets learner reaction to the Concrete Experience verbally or in writing. Learners share their reactions and discuss with other learners.

Generate New Information

- Presentation of new content through a method designed at the learner level.
- The facilitator chooses best method for content delivery. If the learner has little knowledge, this may be lecture. If the learner has more knowledge, then discussion or project-based may be the preferable delivery method(s).

Develop

- Reflective process to enhance motivation and valuing, and develop possible future uses for the content.
- The facilitator asks questions, such as: What was learned? Why is it important? What will you do with the new learning?

Apply

- Opportunity for student to demonstrate what was learned by applying the new information to a new experience or in a new way.
- Examples: Project to solve a problem, presentation for discussion, paper that synthesizes or analyzes a situation or condition, etc.
